Tech Veteran Completes Panda USA Assignment

11/25/2003 8:08:57 AM

GLENDALE, Calif., Nov 25, 2003 /PRNewswire via COMTEX/ -- Veteran technologist Riggs Eckelberry has completed a major project of market development for the US branch of Spanish anti-virus software company Panda Software. For several months as general manager, he completed several key projects for the future expansion of Panda US.

"Riggs Eckelberry developed excellent expansion programs and systems which will help us lead the way next year. We thank him for his brilliant ideas and hard work," said Alan Wallace vice president of corporate communications for Panda Software US.

Among the marketing team's successful programs was The Panda Challenge, which gave the company an opportunity to demonstrate to IT managers that they were inadequately protected by their existing security vendors. This paid off when many corporate customers were hard-hit during the virus attacks of late August.

"I'm very excited about Panda Software's prospects for 2004," said Eckelberry. "The company is positioned as a technology winner and has developed a US commercialization platform which will enable it to move into the top tier of security vendors over the next twelve months. I'm proud of what this team has achieved and they have my full support for the future."

Mr. Eckelberry will return to managing TechTransform, his technology consultancy network. More case studies are available at www.techtransform.com. His trademark is a highly personalized, topical style with warm appeal to diverse audiences.
